Fishing Tips

Largemouth Bass

- Target laydowns and near shore cover with spinnerbaits, swimbaits, and shakeyheads.
- In the summer and fall, target the creek channels with Texas/Carolina-rigged plastics, crankbaits, and jigs during the day. During twilight hours, target the flats with various topwater lures.

Crappie

- Fish around sunken brush tops and laydowns.
- Target the deeper creek channels with small jigs, or live bait under a cork.

Bream

- Target coves and fish around cover with tigtined redworms and crickets.

Catfish

- Fish creek channels and deeper laydowns with nightcrawlers or cutbait.

Below: Length distributions for Bluegill, Redear Sunfish, and Largemouth Bass collected during the fall 2021 electrofishing survey.

Left: Even though the majority of bass are small, anglers who dedicate time and effort to fishing the lake can be rewarded with trophy fish like these. A healthy Gizzard Shad population provides larger bass with an excellent food source.

Above: Lake Lowndes crappie anglers can take advantage of a fishery that often gets overlooked. Most anglers targeting crappie use both minnows and jigs fished around or over off-shore brush tops close to deep water.
